Probiotics

- Lactobacilli strains are located in the small intestine and produce lactic acid. Many strains of bacteria from the lactobacillus family have been shown to support regularity and urogenital health, produce the lactase enzyme and help protect the gut from unwanted microorganisms.*

- Bifidobacterium are located in the colon and produce lactic acid and acetic acids, making the gut a very inhospitable place for unwanted material. Bifidobacteria also support regularity*. Bacillus coagulans is a spore forming, lactic acid producing bacteria. It supports immune system function, elimination of unwanted material and has been shown to help reduce gas and bloating.*
